

HARBIN ENGINEERING UNIVERSITY INTERNATIONAL ADMISSION HANDBOOK

HARBIN ENGINEERING UNIVERSITY

UNIVERSITY OVERVIEW

Harbin Engineering University (HEU) was established in 1953, with its main campus located near the Songhua River in Harbin, often referred to as the "Ice City" of northeastern China.

HEU is one of the first institutions in China authorized to confer master's and doctoral degrees. It is also a member of the initial cohort of universities under the "211 Project" and one of the first national "Double First-Class" universities.

In 2024, HEU was listed in the Best Chinese Universities Ranking by Shanghai Ranking Consultancy, a prestigious assessment based on the views of various stakeholders, including students, employers, academics, and industry professionals.
